MOTOR EFFICIENCY

LOCAL COMPANY MARKETS
PRODUCT THAT BANISHES
CARBON TROUBLES

By the manufacture of a hydro-carbon product, to which has been given the name "carbo-null," a local company known as the West Coast Sales Agency, has obtained a substance which effectually keeps motors clean and obviates back firing. "This substance effects a 25 to 40 per cent saving in gasoline and repair bills," said Ed Wolbach, of the Munson Drug store, who is personally interested in the company, along with a number of other citizens of Glendale.

"Everyone who has run an automobile knows what carbon trouble means. Everyone will be equally delighted to learn that those troubles can be eliminated. One of the garages in Glendale had some scepticism concerning the subject and could not be persuaded to try the new product, but at last gave way to persuasion. The result has been that that particular garage is never without carbo-null. It gave results.

"We give a 'money-back' guaranty with each purchase. We are not afraid to do so. We know that our customers are going to get results and that they are going to be pleased. If anyone will take note of the condition the spark-plugs and pistons in an auto before using carbo-null and again after using it a few days he will be astonished to find what a cleansing has taken place. Besides this compound is absolutely non-injurious. Its use means a vast saving in the course of a year to auto owners. We are assured of this, having proved it by experiment. Out of 25 cases where carbo-null had been used 23 showed 100 per cent value from its use. The other two cases showed a little less.

"There is no doubt about this. The tests were made under the most exacting conditions and they produced the result noted above. This is our guaranty: 'After you have used 25 gallons of gasoline treated with carbo-null, as per directions, you may return unused balance of package and get your money back, provided results are not in accordance with our claims.'

"This company—the West Coast Sales Agency—guarantees more speed, more power, uniform combustion and perfect ignition as the result of using gasoline treated with carbo-null. It produces motor efficiency. Your carbon troubles will disappear as by magic.

"So much do the responsible parties who compose our local company think of this product and of the demand that is certain to be made for it before very long that they are contemplating going into the national field with the compound. That will cost a good deal of money, but it will bring results. One ad in a certain well-known weekly will cost the company $3500, but it should bring in ten times its cost.

"By keeping up this work and extending our national advertising from month to month we hope to build up a vast national sales agency that will probably clear substantial sums annually. We have confidence in our product and know that it will finally find its way into every garage and into the greater number of the domestic garages of the State and finally of the country. Our business is likely only to be limited by our capacity for advertising. This preparation contains neither alcohol nor ether, camphor nor acid of any kind. It has a thousand qualities to recommend it and we have yet to learn one drawback to its use."

Then as a partial surprise, the ladies of the church who were active members of the Aid and Missionary society when Mrs. Haines was with them, together with their husbands, were invited in for the evening. A very pleasant time was spent in renewing old acquaintances and in making new. The pleasure of the evening was largely increased by a number of musical selections, artistically rendered by Professor and Mrs. Lowinsky.

THE JOLLY OLD FOLKS' PICNIC

These people are not old in spirit, and so they like to meet together for a picnic reunion as well as the younger folks. So if you are over seventy, this is your invitation for yourself and all your friends past that age to attend the annual picnic reunion of all the people in Southern California who are past seventy years of age.

It will be held in Sycamore Grove, Los Angeles, Saturday, September 2nd, 1916. (Please remember, it is held each year the first Saturday in September). Come as early as you can and have a happy day with these jolly old-young people. It is intended for those over seventy, but if you need help to carry your dinner, or to aid you, why, just bring any friend along. ## WOOLWINE MEETING

DISTRICT ATTORNEY ADDRESSES
GLENDALE AUDIENCE ON WORK OF HIS OFFICE

Thomas Lee Woolwine, who has served eighteen months as District Attorney of Los Angeles county, appeared before a fairly large audience Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium and gave briefly a review of his official acts since assuming the duties of that office. Mr. Woolwine was introduced by H. P. Coker of Glendale, who in his introductory remarks said that the law governing the length of term that a district attorney shall serve is all wrong and that it is a mistake to have a man who has performed the duties of his office faithfully as has Mr. Woolwine, after serving two years go to the great expense of making a fight to continue himself in office. The chairman announced that the audience would be entertained by the Sanitarium quartet, consisting of E. W. Culver, J. C. Colcord, C. H. Jones and L. W. Sturdevant, who sang two selections, "America" and "Way Down South Once Mo'," to the great pleasure of the audience.

Upon taking his place before the audience District Attorney Woolwine said he considered himself the servant of the people, and that during the eighteen months that he had held the office of district attorney he had never lost sight of the solemn oath he took when he first entered the district attorney's office in an official capacity. He said it has been his aim to do his duty in all particulars and at this juncture he gave an opportunity to anyone in the audience who might wish to ask him a question concerning anything that had been reported to them as an official neglect on his part to ask the question and he would give them a courteous reply. Mr. Woolwine said that he extended this privilege of asking questions to every audience before whom he talked because he had learned that many false reports had gone out as to his laxness in enforcing the law. There were no questions asked so Mr. Woolwine proceeded to give a review of his service of a year and a half as district attorney of Los Angeles county.

In part he said the position of district attorney in Los Angeles county is an important one and includes the handling of more cases than any other county in the United States excepting New York and Cook county, Ill. On an average he has forty people employed in connection with the district attorney's office. He is allowed eight detectives to do the work that is necessary in that department in a county of a million people. Mr. Woolwine stated very emphatically that he had allowed no individual, corporation or municipality to dictate to him his course of action. When he was approached by the proprietor of one of the big city newspapers asking that he receive dictation from this newspaper man he paid no attention to the request and the result has been that this newspaper king is opposed to his reelection and has in connection with one of the supervisors made efforts to retard the carrying out of the enforcement of the laws in the county.

He said, "I have been asked to dismiss cases wherein the guilt of the parties was very evident. Even strong pressure was brought to bear upon me to dismiss Caplan and Schmidt, the dynamiters." Just at this point Mr. Woolwine recited the story of the dynamiters. He told of the origin of the plot in Indianapolis by the anarchists, McNamara, and others. In a very interesting description he followed them by way of Chicago to the large northern coast cities where they got in their infernal work and then to San Francisco and later to Los Angeles where they blew up the Times building. He said that evidence showed that instead of merely blowing up the Times building the original plot was to wipe Los Angeles off the face of the map. Important buildings were to be dynamited including the waterworks plant, the city was then to be fired and thus the anarchists would have their revenge. He explained that the men who participated in the explosion of the bomb at the time of the Preparedness parade a few weeks ago in San Francisco belonged to the McNamara gang and that their headquarters in San Francisco was at the same place as was that of the company of anarchists in 1910. "When the Caplan and Schmidt case came up for trial I did everything within my power to gain evidence to convict these men. I visited Indianapolis, I secured the assistance of an able detective there and it would make an interesting story if I had time to relate the chain of evidence that I procured. It is terrible to

ST. LOUIS IS SLOW

P. A. C. MOORE SAYS CONDITIONS
IN MISSOURI METROPOLIS
ARE UNDESIRABLE

P. A. C. Moore, the well-known real estate man of Glendale, who is touring the Middle West, with Mrs. Moore, writes from St. Louis, Mo., as follows:

Editor Glendale Evening News: We arrived in St. Louis just before the extreme heat began. It has kept us busy to keep cool ever since. St. Louis is not making much progress when one takes into consideration the size of the city and the extent of its population. It is now eight years since I was in St. Louis before. During that time the population has increased only 50,000. The entire population of the city is about 800,000.

Traffic at Broadway and Olive streets, between 11 a. m. and 12 noon, showed an average of 8½ vehicles of all classes per minute. I believe that Broadway and Brand do as well as that.

Conditions in the real estate business are no better here than in California. As this rather astonished me I asked my friends what was the cause of this state of affairs. I was answered: "You remember what were the conditions here during Cleveland's administration. It is the same now. We need a change and we want a change."

"Why," said I, "don't you know that President Wilson has kept us out of war?"

"It matters not," they answered, "we want business here. The people of Mexico will probably take their own way and carry out their own policies in the end."

I find that the city fathers here are in a sea of troubles. They are having a hard time trying to please the public.

We who live in the beautiful and clean city of Glendale sometimes do not appreciate our blessings. A glimpse of what is going on in St. Louis is enough to make us thankful for the clean surroundings in which we have the privilege of dwelling. Here, in the heart of this great city, women think nothing of going into a saloon for a bucket of beer. Mothers and fathers of Glendale may well rejoice that their children are not compelled to live in the midst of such environments. Life is worth living when one dwells in a city like Glendale, where everybody stands for good morals.

I find that prices for provisions and all supplies are just as high as on the Pacific coast.

We will leave here in a few days for Ohio and Virginia and will return home in time to vote for Hughes and "California Dry."

—P. A. C. MOORE.

WOMEN TO ORGANIZE FOR • BOOTH

Glendale women will meet at the residence of Mrs. G. Philips and Miss Eva Daniels, 1424 W. Colorado boulevard, tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon at 3 o'clock, to organize a club to promote the candidacy of Willis H. Booth for the United States Senate. Mrs. E. R. Brainerd, vice-president of the Friday Morning club and former president of the Women's City club, and Dr. Jessie A. Russell, vice-president of the Women's City club, will speak. Mrs. Booth will be a guest at the meeting. All those interested in the issues of the present campaign, whether they have decided whom they will vote for or not, are invited to be present.

know that there has been and there is an organized body of anarchists in this country whose sole effort is for the destruction of life and property. Strange as it may seem this class of people have sympathizers whom you would least expect to be poisoned with this anti-American spirit. I received letters shortly after the arrest of Caplan and Schmidt from New York asking that these men be released. Notwithstanding I conducted the case against these men at an expense of $96,000 instead of $240,000, the expense of conducting the case against McNamara by my predecessor. If it had been necessary to have spent $1,000,000 to convict these men the money would have been well spent and I would have felt justified in spending it. We must protect our American institutions and had I not vigorously prosecuted the Caplan, Smith cases we know not but anarchists would have been encouraged to explode a bomb in the midst of the Preparedness parade in Los Angeles as they did at San Francisco.

Mr. Woolwine said that he does not want the support of anarchists or those who sympathize with them, that he stands for the supporting of the laws and the protection of human life and American institutions.

WONDERS OF THE YOSEMITE

New trails and better roads through the Yosemite region have enabled a great many more travelers than ever this year to see the recesses of this wonderful valley. The valley is indeed incomparable. The first view of the Yosemite far exceeds expectation. It is not one thing; it is many. It is not a stupendous tumult of waters like Niagara, which is always disappointing at first sight, but it is a hundred wonders merging into each other and opening up new vistas of beauty from day to day.

Nothing can be more impressive than the sheer immensity of the precipices on each side of the peaceful floor. There is not only one waterfall but many. The Bridal Veil fall is a marvel of supernatural beauty, with its constant suggestion of mystery; but the Yosemite Falls are just as marvelous. The Vernal Falls of themselves would be a sight sufficient to make the reputation of any countryside, but Yosemite has numerous such falls. Nature has been lavish in the gifts she has bestowed on this favored region.

This magnificent Valley was once a tortuous river canyon. That was thousands of years ago. The beautiful Merced river was then a raging torrent that cut out the valley so rapidly that the tributary valleys were left suspended high on each side. Then the canyon became the bed of a great glacier. This enormous river of ice slowly ground its way along to the sea, smoothing and polishing the rocks as it passed and leaving them with millions of scorings even now plainly visible. The glacier, like a huge chisel, widened and deepened the valley proper and still further accentuated the hanging character of the side valleys.

This explains the enormous height of the waterfalls. Yosemite Falls, for instance, drops 1140 feet in one sheer fall, a height equal to nine Niagara Falls piled one on top of the other. The Lower Yosemite fall, immediately below, has a drop of 320 feet, or two Niagaras more. Vernal Fall has the same height. The Nevada Falls drops 594 feet sheer and the celebrated Bridal Veil Falls 620 feet. There is no other spot in the world where such a wonderful sight can be enjoyed.

In very truth this is an incomparable valley. All these foaming falls dissolving in their own mists; those quiet forests, where the soul can feel the hush of divine peace; those rivers that glide and rush and tumble and ever sing on their way to the ocean; those enormous granite peaks towering to the very heavens; the perishing yet beautiful herbage that clothes their sides—all make up the semblance of a dream that transcends the greatest beauty of human imagination.

Imagine the marvelous El Capitan, the master of the valley, that stands 3600 feet of solid rock, a gigantic warder over the amenities of the Park! Think of the Cathedral rocks that tower 2600 feet above the region of the wild flowers! The Half Dome with its magnificent height of 5000 feet and Cloud's Rest, 6000 feet! Down the sides of these gigantic warders of the mysterious valley the waterfalls toss and fling their mighty waters as though rejoicing in their giant leaps. Summer or winter the Valley ever presents something new—its big trees, its humanized bears and other animals, its river trout in millions, all make this the greatest wonder spot of the United States. No one will lose by seeing America first.

DIFFICULTIES IN CHINA

China has almost inevitably been dominated by one man or another ever since the expulsion of the royal dynasty. Doubtless the steps taken in the revolution were significant enough or progress; but what passes for progress in China is not what passes for progress in other lands. The majority of the people have so long been obsessed and dominated over by different dynasties—Mings or Tartars—that they have become accustomed to disturb themselves as little as possible with what is going on in the central government as long as they are let alone to live in their own way. The average Chinese cares very little whether he lives under a monarchy or a republic.

Yuan Shi Kai, the president of the country who was recently removed, probably by poison, on account of his desire for kingly power, was no more to blame for his ambition than a hundred others who have similar aspirations. The national council is composed of men who would be just as ready as Yuan was to set up a royal dynasty. They believe as he did that China is not yet ripe for a republic. They may be wrong and it may be that the people or a section of them at least, is really aroused to the benefits of democratic rule; but those best conversant with Chinese affairs say that the majority of the people see very little difference between one form of government and another and are only desirous to have some stable form of rule that will keep out foreign exploiters and give the people a chance to live in peace.

There is no one more peaceable than the Chinese. He is so sheeplike and dormant that it is hard to believe that at one time Chinese armies made unbelievable campaigns in the Tibet mountains, on the roof of the world, against the Goorkhas, the famous hill fighters of India, and beat them also. Yet it was the case. When properly officered and led the Chinese is not only as capable of taking on the polish of drill as the man of any other nation, but he is also found to be brave beyond belief and a fighter of the most tenacious character. Did not Chinese Gordon at the head of 3000 troops drilled and inspired by himself put to flight again and again rebel armies of 40,000 and 50,000?

There is no saying what a nation of this kind may do when roused. Give them modern magazine rifles and machine guns and modern field artillery and there seems little reason to doubt that they would prove equal to some of the finest European troops. They would fight for a monarchy, as Liang Shih Yi, who is called "the brains of China," says, in all probability because they have been accustomed to a monarchy for 5000 years. They fear insecurity.

The reasons for the people desiring a monarchy are religious,

TROPICO TRUSTEES MEETING

The board of trustees of the city of Tropico met in regular session in the city hall Tuesday evening at 7:30 with Trustees Alspach, Boyce, Henry, Peters and Seal present; also City Engineer Wattles, City Health Officer Mabry, Street Superintendent Wasson and City Marshal Gould.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. A communication was received from H. P. Larson stating that the street work on Adams street and Moore avenue was not being done in accordance with the contract he had with the city, whereby he had deeded a certain right of way to the city, and asked that his contract be complied with. The board seemed to think any contract, if he had one, was void and no action was taken.

A communication was received from the Southern California Contracting company requesting a copy of the plans and specifications for the improvement of Acacia street, west of Brand. The clerk was ordered to furnish same to any contractors who might apply for them.

At this juncture Mr. Green addressed the board pointing out the unsatisfactory condition of the new street work on Moore avenue, pointing out to the board the different places of faulty construction, etc., and is anxious that the board do not accept the work until the contract is fully complied with.

A communication was received from City Attorney Shaw stating that he would be unable to attend the meeting, and advising the board as to the manner of procedure in regard to the improvement of Hill street. His communication also included a letter he had received from Mr. Jones wherein he asked information in regard to the bill of Dr. French, which the State Compensation bureau refused to pay. On advice of the city attorney the clerk was ordered to answer the letter of Mr. Jones and make it clear to him that the City of Tropico was in no way liable for said doctor bill and his fee would have to be settled by the insurance company.

After the clerk had read the plans and specifications for the improvement of Hill street between Green street and Moore avenue, Resolution No. 234 was passed adopting plans 79 and 79A for said improvement. The assessment district came up for discussion and Mr. Green very strenuously objected to residents on Green street being included in the assessment district, stating that said improvement would benefit no one except Mr. Price and would not be fair and just for others to help pay for an improvement that would enable Mr. Price to place upon the market his tract of three acres which is inaccessible without such improvement. The board seemed to think that Mr. Green was not taking the right view of the matter and proceeded with the adoption of Resolution No. 235, being a resolution of intentions for the improvement of Hill street.

Former City Attorney Goodwin addressed the board in regard to the contract made between Mr. and Mrs. Larson and himself, as city attorney, pertaining to certain conditions for the improvement of Adams and Moore avenue. As City Attorney Shaw was not present to take the matter up with him the matter was laid over until next meeting.

The city attorney suggested cer-

It is the religion or philosophy of China that has held the country together. Loyalty to the sovereign, filial piety, honor and righteousness are the four leading principles which have been taught the people for countless generations. Along with them they have five relationships, parent and child, husband and wife, elder and younger brother, friend and friend. The keystone of the whole system is loyalty to the sovereign. Take that away and the others will also collapse.

Deprived of this foundation principle the Chinese have nothing to which they can turn for moral support. They know nothing else. They need something to hold them up as a nation. That something, says Liang Shih Yi, is a monarchy. There is no doubt that with rebellion and unrest everywhere throughout the provinces China needs some definite plan for a stable government.

BE SLOW TO CIRCULATE FALSE REPORTS

The practice of circulating false reports concerning the character of candidates for office is one that should meet with the disapproval of every good citizen. When a man declares himself a candidate for office, his enemies immediately set at work to defeat him by circulating injurious reports about his past life. Many of these reports often are without foundation and the ones circulating them will not vouch for the truthfulness of them and yet they do all within their power to give such reports wide publicity. The time has come when it seems impossible to have anything good said of a man by the general public until he has finished his career in this world and passed to the great beyond. Horace Greeley, living, was denounced by a class of intelligent people known as his political enemies as a dangerous man to the nation and after his death all people united in speaking words of approval of the life and character of Horace Greeley and those who had been his enemies were leaders in offering these words of praise to a man whom they said was the peer of all journalists who had lived in his time.

At the present time there are many men who are doing valiant work for their country in various ways who are not receiving the credit for it that they should and not until the lips of these men are closed in death will the people of this nation be prompted to tell the truth about those great men. It is often said flowers should be given to the living rather than placed upon the graves of the dead. It is equally fitting to speak words of praise of the living rather than waiting until it is too late for this praise to be an inspiration and encouragement to the one of whom it is spoken.

The board then proceeded to canvass the vote of the special election held on the 5th day of August, for the consolidation of Tropico with Glendale, with the following result: Precinct No. 1—Yes, 223; No, 152. Precinct No. 2—Yes, 158; No, 241. Total—Yes, 381; No, 393, giving a negative majority of 12 votes. A resolution was then adopted proclaiming the question defeated.

Many fall into error because they follow their own taste alone; therefore let each look to it that his inclination blind not his judgment. For every mother is well pleased with her own child, and thus also it ariseth that many painters paint figures resembling themselves.—Albrecht Durer.

NEW YORK'S ANCIENT STONE

New York City's most impressive of monuments, the Obelisk, stands in Central Park, a superb 196-ton monolith of ancient Egypt. When Augustus Caesar, Emperor of Rome, took this Obelisk and its companion to Alexandria in Egypt in the year 22 or 23 B. C., the great stone was then more than 1,600 years of age.

Thotmes III, Pharaoh of Egypt, set up these monoliths there in 1650 B. C. Ismail Pasha, Khedive of Egypt, presented the Obelisk to New York in 1879, and in 1881, at a cost of over $100,000, which the late W. H. Vanderbilt defrayed, the stone was finally mounted in the park.

PHYSICIANS BAN ALCOHOL

An investigation in hospitals in the United States shows that the use of liquor as prescribed to patients by physicians has dropped from thirty to ninety per cent in the last seven years. In 1899 one of the large hospitals of Philadelphia, with 4,206 patients, used over $1,135 worth of alcoholic drinks. In 1914 with 6,312, or nearly twice as many patients, it spent only $365 for alcoholic stimulants.

SCOUTS' RADIO MACHINE

Amateur radio operators in Indianapolis, Ind., are watching with much interest a large new receiving machine recently installed in the headquarters of the Boy Scouts. The instrument is the largest in Indiana. It was given to the Scouts by an alumnus of the Electrical Engineering Department of Purdue University.

The station has picked up messages from Panama, and Tuckerton and Belmar stations in New Jersey. Belmar station is usually considered far too highly tuned for any amateur instrument, and this is the first machine in Indiana that ever caught anything from that station.

CO-OPERATIVE INVENTION

The poor but hopeful inventor, working under discouraging conditions with crude instruments and inadequate materials, has often been pictured. By contrast we now have in New York City a great building which houses several hundred men, who co-operate with one another in perfecting new devices and devising new processes.

It is in reality a workshop of modern inventive genius, or a laboratory where teamwork is applied to invention. By the combination of the facilities provided in the various physical and chemical laboratories of the establishment conditions and materials far beyond the reach of the average man are brought together and made available at the lowest possible cost. Practically every kind of machine necessary to fundamental mechanical operations is available, with power, electrical and otherwise, for operating.

Designers, draughtsmen, pattern-makers, model-makers, instrument-makers, machinists, electricians, chemists and other specialists in varied fields work together to further the production of machines, appliances, and processes that will benefit mankind.

Germany has fumigating tanks large enough to receive a full-sized railroad coach.

BOULEVARD COMMITTEE

VALLEY VIEW

G. H. Bentley, wife and children, of 1441 Pacific avenue, spent last week in Long Beach.

Miss Lilly Smith arrived at home Saturday from a few weeks' visit in Lamar, Colo. She brought back with her the 6-year-old son and 4-year-old daughter of a deceased sister, has rented C. H. Darling's house at 1628 Oak street, and will care for the children and keep them in school.

Miss Ada Kenyon of 1500 Oak St., a Sunset telephone operator of considerable experience, has resigned her position and will go to Berkeley with her sister, Mrs. Laura Sprinkle, who has been visiting here for some time, and will accept a like position there.

The work of improving Pacific avenue is proceeding rapidly. Walks and curbs are all in and nearly half the grading is done. The contractors are doing fine work and are very courteous and obliging to all the residents along the street. The walks present a curious appearance. Between Broadway and Ivy, on the east side of the street, the walk is but 4 feet wide, but in other places it is five. At Vine street it was necessary to make inclines, the survey of Pacific making its grade from three to four inches higher than Vine. Between Vine and Riverdale, along the west side of Pacific, is a queer patchwork. The first 125 feet of walk is about a foot from the property line. There it meets a piece of old walk which is in center of the parkway; 150 feet from Riverdale begins a stretch of new walk built snug up against the property line, as are all the other stretches of walk except those named.

Ray Smedley, of the battleship South Dakota, is with his mother at 1453 Riverdale for a few days.

Mrs. Cross of 1441 Hawthorne expects to move to Eley, Nevada, in a few days.

Harry Greenwalt and wife of 1508 Oak street were in San Diego Sunday and Monday.

LA CANADA

La Canada Delegation Asks Commission to Back Its Request

Declaring that La Canada people will be seriously hampered in bringing their crops to Pasadena, in coming here to trade, unless the county bridge at Devil's Gate is reopened, a delegation appeared at the city hall Monday and asked the City Commission to intercede with the county supervisors on behalf of the people of the valley.

P. H. Johnson was chairman of the committee and was accompanied by H. L. Cooper, W. R. Jewett and A. G. Williams. Mr. Johnson declared the bridge was no more unsafe than for several years past, and that it would be all right for ordinary traffic, if heavy trucks were kept from crossing it. He said the roadway across the Arroyo is already being cut up by the heavy hauling. To use the Linda Vista road, he stated, would add two and one-half to three hours to a trip to the packing house at Lamanda Park, besides making it necessary to cut down the loads of fruit in order to surmount the Linda Vista hill.

The commission asked the La Canada people to take the matter up with the supervisors and then report back, when the commission might find it possible to support their plea. According to the delegation the La Canada valley has a million pounds of lemons annually and twice as many oranges, besides deciduous fruits and other produce to haul over the Devil's Gate bridge. The Linda Vista road they regard as a temporary route at best, as they expect it to be blocked when the foundation work of the flood control dam is put in.

The La Canada people fear they will be cut off entirely when the flood water comes down the Arroyo this winter, unless they are permitted to use the present county bridge from which all traffic is being barred at the present time.—Pasadena Star.

Mrs. McDonald and two children spent Saturday in our valley visiting old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen of Riverside and Mrs. Bixby and daughter of Pasadena, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baker.

Messrs. D. J. Green and Max Green motored through Antelope valley Sunday and visited friends in that valley.

Henry Baker is expecting his daughter, Mrs. Davis and Jean of Springfield, Missouri, here this winter to pay him a visit.

Miss Lova Peet of Antelope valley is spending a few days at the home of D. J. Green.

Miss Margaret Van Degrift has been sojourning at Redondo Beach for a couple of weeks.

Mr. Haven, a resident of the valley, while on a trip in the east, has become suddenly ill, and is reported as being very low.

Mr. Hargett has sold his ranch to Mrs. Barhyte of the city. Great improvements are being made.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson and Miss Mushrow are spending a few days at the seashore.

The La Canada Valley Improvement association will hold its regular meeting Saturday, Aug. 19, at the club hall. Mr. Ralph F. Graham, candidate for district attorney, will give an address on "Local Patriotism." Music will be furnished. Refreshments. Everyone come.

Miss Lulu Green is spending a few days at the beach with friends.

Mrs. Albert Van Degrift is spending several days in Los Angeles with friends.

Mr. Marion Lea is spending a few weeks with friends in Selma.

Lloyd Peet has returned to his home in Antelope valley, after a stay of several weeks in La Canada.

EFFICIENCY OF LIVING

The gospel of efficiency of living is now being taught to Kansas farmers' wives and the dwellers in the villages and towns of the State by Frances L. Brown, who is engaged in doing household economics extension work under the auspices of the State Agricultural College of Manhattan, Kan. She has a corps of assistants spreading knowledge from one end of the State to the other. There is a place for every woman in Kansas who desires to join the School of Instruction. The work begins in September when the pupils go out to the farms of the State, where the products of the skill of the housewives are viewed and technical criticism is offered to raise the standard of efficiency.

A part of the year is spent in attendance on Farmers' Institutes, where household economics lessons are given for both men and women. Miss Brown's theory is that it is easier for "father" to pay for "mother's" fireless cooker and kitchen sink after he has been enlightened regarding them. During the winter months Miss Brown and her assistants operate a school on wheels, conducting instruction at the very doors of the rural homes. Schoolhouses, churches, and barns are also used. Already women in the country towns and villages are better and more economical cooks, and they have learned to make their homes more attractive and sanitary.

To make a map of the world on the unprecedented scale of sixteen miles to the inch is the project of British scientists.

UMBRELLAS

Umbrellas were hardly heard of in Europe until two or three hundred years ago, though they had been used in Asia since long before that. The first Englishman to carry one was jeered at, and followed along the streets by a laughing crowd. He was Jonas Hanway, it is said, a traveling merchant, who brought back with him from the east the umbrella which was supposed to be the first seen in Europe. But as a matter of fact, it was not the first at all; umbrellas had been known on the continent, and were not unheard of in England. The French writer, Montaigne, saw some umbrellas in Italy in the sixteenth century, and Drayton, an English poet, refers to them early in the seventeenth century. It was not until the middle of the eighteenth century that Hanway returned from the east with his. A few years before that, General Wolfe, the conqueror of Canada, wrote a letter from Paris, in which he explains that umbrellas were common in the streets, and wonders why such convenient contrivances had not been used in his own country. Hanway's umbrella was flat and wide, shaped like the paper parasols of the Japanese; he persisted in carrying it through the streets of his native town, ignoring the insults and jeers until the people came to see its value and adopted it themselves.

WHAT IS A GYROSCOPE?

A gyroscope is a sort of top. A gyroscope top, which most children have seen, is a round, flat piece of metal, with a small rod up and down through the center. This rod is pointed at each end and fits into a metal framework. You wind a string around the rod, hold the frame (which does not spin), and pull the string hard. This makes the round piece of metal spin so fast that you can set the top anywhere and it will stay upright. It will spin on the edge of a glass, or it will spin its way down a fine, slanting wire without falling. You know the faster a top spins the straighter it stands up and the more easily it balances itself, writes Marion E. Bailey in "Boys and Girls' Ask-at-Home Questions." That is because, when a thing is moving very fast in any direction it becomes very hard for any other force to change that direction. Because of this, the idea of the gyroscope is used in making monorail cars—cars which have only one rail for a track. For a long time this was thought impossible. You can see how a fast-moving car might perhaps balance itself on one rail, like a rolling hoop or a fast-moving bicycle, but when it went slow or stopped it would tip over. However, it is possible to balance cars on one rail by having a gyroscope inside of them. They put in the framework of the car two huge gyroscope wheels, weighing several tons each. These turn around two or three thousand times every minute—one turning in one direction, and the other in the opposite direction. These wheels are kept turning by electricity, and they keep the car upright and well balanced, even though there is only one rail for it to run on.

In proportion to its size, the swallow is said to have a larger mouth than any other bird.

A JEWEL BOX

One of the most beautiful buildings in Paris is the Sainte Chapelle, standing on that island in the Seine which also boasts Notre Dame and the Palais de Justice, which was the ancient palace of the French kings. It was Louis IX., who was afterward called Saint Louis, who had the Sainte Chapelle built in the middle of the thirteenth century, within the precincts of his palace. The chapel is supported by great piers, its walls consist mostly of lofty windows, and in the center of the roof rises the graceful spire. The chapel is made up of a lower and an upper church; the lower one, a mere crypt, was used by the servants of the royal family. The upper chapel, reached by a small spiral stairway, is where the royal family and the court attended service. The chapel is gorgeous with the bright colors of its magnificent stained glass windows, which practically make up the entire walls. The chapel glows with reds, purples, gold, rose, and by many people it has been likened to a jewel box filled with rare gems.

THE QUATRAIN

As the Greek epigram served for votive tables so the quatrain has been chosen by several American poets for memorial inscriptions wherein a lapidary concision was needed. For the beautiful windows put up in St. Margaret's Westminster, in memory of Raleigh and Milton, the inscriptions were written by Lowell and Whittier. Here is Lowell's quatrain on Raleigh:

The New World's sons, from England's breast we drew
Such milk as bids remember whence we came;
Proud of her Past, from which our Present grew,
This window we erect to Raleigh's name.

And here is Whittier's on Milton:
The New World honors him whose lofty plea
For England's freedom made her own more sure,
Whose song, immortal as its theme, shall be
The common freehold while both worlds endure.

NEW LINE TO GREECE

Greece has finally been linked with the railroad network of the rest of Europe by the construction of a short strip of railway. This will make it possible eventually to run through trains from Paris and other continental capitals to Athens and the Piraeus.

The strip in question is that between Gilda and the Saloniki-Monastir line and Pappapoli, on the Thessalian border, fifty-five miles in length.

LIGHTEST AND HEAVIEST WOODS

The lightest wood known, according to the Rural New Yorker, is called balsa—its other names being corkwood, floating wood or lanero. The heaviest wood is black ironwood. A cubic inch of ironwood will balance, on the scales, 10 cubic inches of balsa. Ironwood is still used for rudder posts on ships.

CIRCUS TIME

Oh, we haven't any tent,
And we haven't any ring,
But we think a circus show
Will be the very thing.

It will be the very thing
For all the girls and boys;
And for an audience
We'll have the dolls and toys.

We'll have the dolls and toys
Come here from all the town
To watch the acrobats
And giggle at the clown.

They'll giggle at the clown;
And when the show is through,
Then we'll begin again,
And they will think it's new.
—Almina Blossom in the Youth's Companion.

HUCKLEBERRY TIME

Well, now,—said I,—suppose a good, clean wholesome-looking countryman's cart stops opposite my door. Do I want any huckleberries? If I do not, there are those that do. Thereupon my softvoiced handmaid bears out a large tin pan, and then the wholesome countryman, heaping the peck measure, spreads his broad hands around its lower arc to confine the wild and frisky berries, and so they run nimbly along the narrow channel until they tumble rustling down in a black cascade and tinkle on the resounding metal beneath. I won't say that this rushing huckleberry hail storm has not more music for me than the "Anvil Chorus."—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

FIJIAN PROSPEROUS

There is always the bright side of the picture. Down in the Fijian group the natives, released from something very like serfdom to the sugar barons, are now raising cane and other crops on their own account. Because of conditions obtaining in other parts of the world, the Fijian islander is said to be making "noteworthy profits" on his industry. Nobody at all acquainted with his past adversity will begrudge him his present prosperity. Quite the contrary.—C. S. Monitor.

SHEPHERD'S SONG

We that have known no greater state
Than this we live in, praise our fate;
For courtly silks in cares are spent,
When country's russet breeds content.

The power of scepters we admire,
But sheep-hooks for our use desire.
Simple and low is our condition,
For here with us is no ambition;

We with the sun our flocks unfold,
Whose rising makes their fleeces gold;
Our music from the birds we borrow,
They bidding us, we them, good morrow.

—Thomas Heywood (seventeenth century).

NOBILITY OF NATIONS

The true nobility of nations is shown by the men they follow, by the men they admire, by the ideals of character and conduct they place before them.—Lecky.

You cannot step twice into the same river; for other and ever other waters flow on.—Heraclitus.

THE CLASSICS

Let me always read the classics.
There are bardings of a day,
Fables from twilight unto twilight;
But the classics ever stay.
And the classics are the voices
Of the mountain and the glen
And the multitudinous ocean
And the city filled with men,—
Voices of a deeper meaning
Than all drippings of the pen.

Yes, the mountains are a classic,
And an older word they speak
Than the classic of the Hebrew
Or the Hindoo or the Greek.
Dumb are they, like all the classics,
Till the chosen one draws near,
Who can catch their inner voices
With the ear behind the ear;
And their words are high and mystic,
But the chosen one can hear.

And the ocean is a classic.
Where's the scribe shall read its word,
Word grown old before the Attic
Or Ionian bards were heard.

Word once whispered unto Homer,
Sown within his fruitful heart,—
And he caught a broken message,
But he only heard a part.
Listen, thou; forget the babblings
And the pedantries of art.
—Samuel Walter Foss.

ROBINSON CRUSOE

The anniversary of the publication of the first part of "Robinson Crusoe," which was issued to the public on April 25, 1719, recalls its immediate success. Its author, Defoe, was 60 years of age, and it set the seal of fame upon his career, whilst for its publisher it laid the foundation of his fortune. Within four months, three editions were published and bought, and so insistent was the demand that several printing offices were kept busy in order to supply it. From the profits, which amount to 1000 pounds, the publisher, William Taylor, was able to double the size of his premises and adopt a new coat of arms, used by his successors, Messrs. Longmans, to this day.—London Chronicle.

AUSTRALIA'S GREAT RAILWAY

In the near future, Australia expects to connect her eastern and western coasts by a modern transportation system, and thus aid greatly in the development of her almost uninhabited interior. The coast lands have experienced great commercial expansion, but the interior, because of its barrenness, scarcity of water and lack of transportation facilities, has gained little in population or wealth.

When the new railway is completed it will be possible to travel from Perth, the capital of western Australia, directly to Brisbane, Queensland's leading city, passing through Adelaide, Melbourne, and Sydney. The route connects the capitals of five states and covers a distance of 4,000 miles, somewhat greater than that from New York to San Francisco. The difficulties of building are as great as those faced by the pioneer railroad builder of the United States, although dissimilar in form. There are no great mountains along the way, but the lack of water presents a serious problem, as it has to be transported from a distance on camels.

PLATTE FOUGERE LIGHT

Of recent years we have had automatic lights and automatic lightships, but the first unattended rock lighthouse with a powerful fog signal is the recently completed Platte Fougere Lighthouse, marking the entrance of Russel Channel, leading to the Guernsey capital of St. Peter Port, a spot which figures in Victor Hugo's romance "The Toilers of the Sea." This unattended tower, built of Ferro concrete on a wave-washed rock, is of irregular octagonal shape, eighty feet high.

The room below the gallery contains many wonderful electrical devices, the invention of the engineer who planned the lighthouse. These are controlled from the shore by a submarine cable nearly a mile and a half long. This cable is of immense strength, being eleven inches in diameter and weighing forty-five tons to the nautical mile. By its aid the fog horn and siren are regularly blown. They have been heard thirty miles away on the French coast.

UNCOVERING THE PAST

An effort is being made to discover the origin of the Pueblo Indians and the Cliff Dwellers of New Mexico this summer by Dr. Lucy Langdon Wilson, a prominent educator. She is one of the most widely known archaeologists and explorers in America. She has gone into the very heart of the Indian villages.

In previous explorations she made excavations and uncovered wonderful ancient apartment houses, implements, and urns, which show much of the life and origin of the early inhabitants of the Southwest. Last year she found an apartment house containing thirty-six rooms and a carload of implements, pottery, cooking utensils, and ceremonial specimens. Some of these were made from stone peculiar to the Pacific Coast, indicating that the ancient Indians at one time lived near the coast or traveled there.

Dr. Wilson has the confidence of the tribes of the Southwest. Most of the excavations have revealed villages unsuspected before. She has started a study of the effect of climatic conditions on these Indians and what caused their extermination.

MOROS BECOME EDUCATED

The transformation of the wild Moros into mild-mannered farmers, a work that was begun by Bishop Charles H. Brent in the Philippines, is to be completed by a committee of Americans organized for the purpose. The most warlike people in the world, according to Bishop Brent, already have converted their rude swords into plowshares and are ripe to make the island of Jolo a new land.

During a visit to the United States recently, Bishop Brent spoke of varied plans to this end. Among other things he said, "We propose, in connection with the agricultural school, to have groups of Moro families in model houses, rent free. They will work the land and the stock farm under competent direction, and their children will go into boarding schools. The boys will learn agriculture, carpentry, mechanics, etc."

"We now have forty boys in the agricultural school, from all classes of Moro society. The boys take readily to athletic sports, especially the American game of baseball."

A DISTINGUISHED TREE

There is a tree in the United States that owns itself. No one can buy or sell it, or claim the legal right to cut it down. No one owns the land in which it stands rooted. The tree is located on the summit of one of the highest hills in the city of Athens, Georgia. It is a gigantic white oak tree perhaps 400 or 500 years old. A citizen who owned the land on which the tree stood grew to love it to such an extent that he made a will bequeathing it, on his death, to itself, that is to say the tree was to own herself and eight feet of ground surrounding it on all sides.

Granite posts and chains surrounding the tree were erected, and on a marble slab are inscribed words from the will of the man who thus gave the tree a home for itself: "For and in consideration of the great love I bear this tree, and the great desire I have for its protection for all time, I convey to it entire possession of itself and all land on eight feet of the tree on all sides." The city of Athens takes care of the tree.
